Sacred Conversation

Twenty Fifth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Hmm. I'm staring at the dollar bill I just took out of my wallet. Sure enough, it's still there. In God we trust. I'm kind of surprised it hasn't been removed by now. Before I read Robert Lupton's Charity Detox: What Charity Would Look Like if we Cared About Results I would have joked that it's actually the perfect slogan for our consumer world. Money is our God, and we trust in it.

But I'm seeing things differently now, and the story about the "unjust steward" doesn't shock me as much as it used to. The truth is that the brilliant and innovative business people who "serve mammon" are exactly who this world needs. We should celebrate and support (and occasionally include in our General Intercessions) prayers for all business people, because the most effective method of poverty alleviation is economic development.

We all have our frustrations with technology, but the tech fields have created more wealth (and jobs) in the world than all the charities that have ever existed. Extreme poverty has been reduced by more than half in the last decade because China and India—who represent the greatest concentration of global poverty in the world—have become major economic players in technologies that have created unparalleled levels of employment for their 2.5 billion people.

Now, their business ethics, like those of the unjust steward, need a huge overhaul. And it's the gross inequalities in wages in this country that keep the real profits in the hands of the few. But how astounding that Jesus knew this basic business principle! Engage those who know how to make money, and put them to work building the kingdom of God.

How is your business investing money and talent in creating economic justice?

Conversaciones Sagradas

Vigésimo-Quinto Domingo de Tiempo Ordinario
Mmm. Estoy viendo el billete de dólar que acabo de sacar de mi cartera. Ciertamente, todavía está ahí. En Dios confiamos. Estoy un tanto sorprendida de que todavía no lo han removido. Antes de leer el libro de Robert Lupton "Desintoxicación de la Caridad: Como sería la caridad si nos importaran los resultados" hubiese bromeado de que realmente es un dicho perfecto para nuestro mundo de consumidores. El dinero es nuestro Dios, y en él confiamos.

Pero ahora veo las cosas de una manera distinta, y la historia del "sirviente injusto" no me sorprende tanto como me sorprendía antes. La verdad es que la gente de negocios brillante e innovadora quienes "sirven a la riqueza" son exactamente lo que este mundo necesita. Necesitamos celebrar y apoyar (y ocasionalmente incluir en nuestras oraciones generales) a la gente de negocios, porque el método más efectivo de aliviar la pobreza es el desarrollo económico.

Todos tenemos nuestras frustraciones con la tecnología, pero los campos tecnológicos han creado más riqueza (y trabajos) en nuestro mundo que todas las caridades que han existido. La pobreza extrema se ha reducido por más de la mitad en la última década porque China y La India—quienes representan la más grande concentración de pobreza global en el mundo—se han convertido en jugadores económicos mayores en tecnologías que han creado niveles incomparables de empleos para sus 2.5 millones de habitantes.

Aun así, sus éticas de negocios, como las del sirviente injusto, necesitan ajustes enormes. Pero en pasos pequeños de justicia económica han dado grandes avances hacia la mejoría. ¡Que asombroso que Jesús sabía de estos principios básicos de los negocios! Involucre a aquellos que saben hacer dinero, y póngalos a trabajar creando el reino de Dios.

¿En que forma está su negocio invirtiendo dinero y talento en crear justicia económica? Kathy McGovern

FLOCKNOTE

Have you signed up for Flocknote yet? For those of you who don't know, Flocknote is a communication tool we will be using to keep our parishioners informed of what is happening in our church. There are a couple of ways to sign up—you can text to join using your cell phone and texting SRL to the short number 84576, or you can sign up on the homepage of our website. When using text to join, you will be sent a link to click, which will then prompt you to add your name and email address. Once you have done that, it will then prompt you to select the groups you wish to receive information from, and that's it! You're all done! From that point on, you will be set to receive messages from the parish or one of the groups to keep you "in the know." The process is much the same when you sign up online, except you don't get a link. Please call Laurie at the parish office if you need help or if you have questions.

The Year of Mercy declared by Pope Francis is almost over, but there are still many people who have not heard our Lord's message of healing and forgiveness. Women and men have been wounded by the loss of their children by an abortion. HOPE & HEALING. Consider attending the Rachel's Vineyard Catholic Retreat which addresses the soul wounds that run deep in many women and men who are suffering with the psychological or spiritual pain of abortion. These, as well as memories of condemnation, abandonment, pain, and confusion are handled with care and replaced by the healing presence, love, and mercy of Jesus Christ. The next retreat is held during the weekend of October 21-23. Deadline for the retreat is October 7. Contact Lori at 303.904.7414 or Edie at 303.775.4108
