Sacred Conversation

Palm Sunday of the Lord's Passion

He must have done a thousand righteous things in his life. He was chosen by Jesus himself to be one of the Twelve. He was trusted to be the treasurer, and to hold the group's money bag. Yet, his eternal title will be Judas, the Betrayer.

We'll never know why on earth he did it. For thirty pieces of silver? The cynic says, "Of course. People will do anything for money." But is there any one of us who would hand a loved one over to be tortured and killed because we could make money by doing so? Never. Judas was up to something, and even today scholars can't quite discern what it was.

I'm intrigued by what the author of Matthew's gospel says: "Then Judas, his Betrayer, seeing that he had been condemned, greatly regretted what he had done." Did Judas try to step into history and force God's hand? Did he think that once the soldiers took hold of Jesus in Gethsemane he would call upon his legion of angels, who would slay anyone laying a hand on God's Anointed?

It followed that Jesus would then gather an army who would roust the Romans from Israel, and the Jews would once again control their homeland. Judas (before he was "the Betrayer") was no doubt named after Judas Maccabeus, the great warrior who liberated Jerusalem from the Seleucids. Judas—perhaps thinking of his great ancestor— was willing to temporarily "betray" Jesus in order to finally get him to harness his heavenly powers.

But it didn't happen that way. Jesus was condemned to death. His Betrayer hanged himself. And Jesus set out on the way of the liberation of the Cross.

For what betrayals in your own life have you been forgiven and set free to be happy again?

Domingo de Ramos de la Pasión del Señor

Debió haber hecho miles de cosas buenas en su vida. Fue elegido por Jesús mismo para ser uno de los doce. Se le confió para ser el tesorero, y cuidar la bolsa de dinero del grupo. Y a pesar de eso, su titulo eterno será Judas, el Traidor.

Nunca sabremos por qué lo hizo. ¿Por treinta monedas de plata? El cínico dice, -Por supuesto. La gente hace cualquier cosa por dinero.- ¿Pero quién de nosotros entregaría un ser amado para ser torturado y asesinado solo porque podemos ganarnos unos pesos por hacerlo? Nunca. Judas se tramaba algo más, y aun los eruditos modernos no pueden descifrar lo que era.

Me intriga lo que dice el autor del evangelio de Mateo: -Entonces Judas, su Traidor, viendo que había sido condenado, se arrepintió profundamente de lo que había hecho.- ¿Trató Judas de interponerse en la historia y forzar la mano de Dios? ¿Pensó que una vez que los soldados arrestaran a Jesús en Getsemaní él llamaría a su legión de ángeles, quienes matarían a cualquiera que pusiera mano en el Ungido de Dios?

Después de eso Jesús juntaría un ejercito que expulsaría a los romanos de Israel, y entonces los Judíos una vez más tomarían control de su patria. Judas (antes que fuera "el Traidor") sin duda fue nombrado por Judas Macabeo, el gran guerrero que liberó a Jerusalén de los Seleucidos. Judas- tal vez pensando en su gran ancestro- estuvo dispuesto a temporariamente "traicionar" a Jesús para así poder finalmente obligarlo a que utilizara sus poderes divinos.

Pero no sucedió así. Jesús fue condenado a muerte. Su Traidor se colgó. Y Jesús comenzó su camino a la liberación de la Cruz.

¿Para qué traiciones en tu vida has sido perdonados y libres ser feliz otra vez?

In Lent, each Friday is a day of abstinence. A day of abstinence means to refrain from eating meat.

Ash Wednesday and Good Friday are days of abstinence as well as days of fasting.

A day of fasting consists of one full meal and two smaller meals that together do not equal another full meal.

Each Catholic who has received their First Communion is expected to receive Communion at least once a year, but especially in the Easter season.

Consequently, this means that every Catholic who has received their First Communion should celebrate the sacrament of Reconciliation before Pentecost Sunday. Abstinence is a requirement of each Catholic from age 14 onward.

Fasting is a requirement of each Catholic from age 18 to 59.
