The Story and You™

Sacred Conversation

Sixteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

What kind of person sneaks into a neighbor's field and plants weeds? It's a shocking example of the evil of which humans are capable. My dad told similar stories about the "dairy wars" during the Depression, when rival dairies would follow the delivery carts and place worms in the milk just delivered to the homes of Denver's wealthy. My grandfather's dairy lost its account with Molly Brown in just this way.

In the movies it's easy to see into the hearts of those who do such obviously evil things. The bad guys know they are bad guys, and they tell themselves stories about imagined crimes against them in order to psych themselves up for the bank robbery or the murder for hire.

What kinds of stories do people tell themselves as they are breaking into someone's home, or stealing the life savings of the elderly? If they were willing to dig deep they'd admit that someone has something they want, and the collateral damage that comes from obtaining it is, well, unfortunate.

They never admit that, of course. Even virtuous people will invent utterly transparent reasons to justify selfishness. If we could see that one truth—that each of us is capable, at times, of behavior that puts us squarely in the "bad guy" column—what grace that would be. Imagine what this world would look like if the humans planting weeds in fields just stopped and said, "Wait. What am I doing?"

We are all working to become, more and more, the fruitful field planted at our baptism. We trust that the Divine Harvester (using Dag Hammarskjöld's image), will keep the grain and, with a breath of kindness, blow the rest away.

How is the fruitfulness of your life overcoming some past selfishness?

Conversaciones Sagradas

Decimo-Sexto Domingo de Tiempo Ordinario

¿Qué tipo de persona se mete en el campo del vecino y planta maleza? Es un ejemplo impactante de la capacidad de maldad que tenemos los humanos. Mi papá me contaba historias similares acerca de las "guerras lácteas" durante la Gran Depresión, cuando las lecherías rivales perseguían los camiones de leche de la competencia e introducían gusanos en la leche que los otros entregaban a las casas de los ricos de Denver. La lechería de mi abuelo perdió su contrato con Molly Brown de esta manera.

En el cine es fácil analizar los corazones de aquellos que se dedican a cosas tan obviamente malvadas. Los tipos malos saben que son tipos malos, y se cuentan a ellos mismos cuentos de crímenes imaginados en su contra para poder convencerse de robar un banco o asesinar a alguien por paga.

¿Qué tipo de cuentos se cuenta la gente mientras se mete a la casa de alguien para robar, o arrebatarle los ahorros de toda la vida a los ancianos? Si estuviesen dispuestos a cavar más profundo, admitirían que alguien tiene algo que ellos desean, y que el daño colateral que resulta de obtener eso es, pues, desafortunado.

Pero nunca lo admitirán, por supuesto. Hasta la gente virtuosa inventa razones totalmente transparentes para justificar su egoísmo. Si pudiésemos ver solo esa realidad- que cada uno de nosotros es capaz, a veces, de comportamientos que nos colocan de lleno en la columna de los "tipos malos"- que gracia sería eso. Imagínate como sería este mundo si la gente que planta semillas de maleza en los campos se detuviera a pensar, "Espera. ¿Qué estoy haciendo?"

Todos nosotros estamos trabajando para convertirnos más y más en el campo fértil que nos fue plantados durante nuestro bautismo, y con un respiro de bondad, soplar lo demás lejos.

¿Cómo está el fruto que ha dado tu vida venciendo algún acto pasado de egoísmo?

“The Son of Man will send his angels, and they will collect out of his kingdom all who cause others to sin and all evildoers. They will throw them into the fiery furnace, where there will be wailing and grinding of teeth. Then the righteous will shine like the sun in the kingdom of their Father.”

— Mt 13:41-43a

LIVE THE LITURGY - INSPIRATION FOR THE WEEK

Today we are presented with the parable of the weeds and the wheat. We struggle with the imperfection that exists in our world. This imperfection shows itself in human sinfulness with its consequences--disease, natural disasters, suffering, and even death. We wonder why God did not simply make everything perfect right from the beginning so that harmony, peace, and tranquility would be the norm. God builds free will into us and into our world so that we can learn to freely love him. Anything less than this would not provide the freedom to choose to acknowledge and develop our relationship with our Creator. For now, the weeds and the wheat must coexist. Our faith teaches us that we live and walk in hope that when the harvest comes only the wheat of God's love will remain.
